- 1% of the capital sum repaid if repayment is made up to one year prior to the product expiry date

No early repayment charge will be made if repayment is made in full at any time during the Loan term due to the death of any or all of the Borrowers.

Guide to early repayment charges

If you repay all or any part of your mortgage on or before your fixed rate expiry date or change this part of your mortgage to a new interest rate, you will have to pay an early repayment charge (the 'Charge') on the amount you have repaid.

The early repayment charge and any exceptions are specified in the mortgage conditions.

We will work out the Charge based on:

1. the amount you repay early; multiplied by
2. the percentage payable, which will be dependent upon the number of years remaining on your rate agreement.

For example using the 2yr option, for illustration only:

£50,000: Amount you repay early.

2 years: The period of time from mortgage draw down to the time of repayment e.g. mortgage held for 18 months would be classified as being in year two .

1%: Percentage payable, as specified in the rate clause within the Special Conditions.

£50,000 x 1%: £500.00 will be levied as your early repayment charge.
